Hi Carolyn:

Thanks for your email! Yes, the Jordan District may share AW information on its website. All of the materials and resources are free to download, and you may link, print, quote, distribute, customize, etc. as needed in the course of your work. We only ask that Attendance Work is credited as the source somehow (though we're not particular about how this is done.) Other than that, the sky's the limit!

Please let me know if you have any questions, and thanks for visiting our site!

Would you please verify that the Jordan District may share Attendance Works information on the Jordan District website. If there are any restrictions on the use of the information from your website would you please clarify the restrictions. Thank you.
