Attendance Drops Near Holidays

Every year before and after a holiday break absences spike as families try to squeeze in an extra day or two of vacation. The best gift you can give your child this year is an education. The best place to get that education is at school. Make sure your child is at school every day.

Strive for 5 or less Absences:

Absences add up more quickly than we realize. In order to have the best chances for success at school your student should have no more than 5 absences the entire year. How is your child doing?

Thanks to You:

We want to say thank you for your efforts to get your student to school every day, on time, and ready to learn. Thank you for making daily attendance a priority in your household as this teaches your student good habits now and for their future.
