

STUDENT NOTES

Why Are We Decreasing the Size of Student Workbooks?

- To ensure equal spacing and eliminate wasted space on each page
- To reduce paper use and help protect the environment
- To make materials more manageable for students
- To make nearly every lesson a single page (front and back)

BUT MOST IMPORTANTLY:

The focus should be on learning, not on completing a worksheet!

Many teachers are choosing to do some lessons on whiteboards or with scratch paper, using slides to guide instruction. This approach is not about just practicing math problems, but about creating rich, rigorous mathematical learning experiences.

Parents can still view every lesson on the student site with no login required.

For more ideas on reducing workbook size, contact your elementary mathematics specialist.

We have removed the warm-ups from the MORE COMPRESSED workbook because these activities are discussion-based. For reflections, there is still an open space for students to reflect on their learning—we have just removed the prompt “My Lesson Reflection.” Students can continue to reflect, and teachers can support this by cocreating anchor charts for each unit.
