

Supporting Students Who Struggle in Mathematics

2018 Face-to-Face Sessions with Dr. Barb Dougherty

Educators will deepen their understanding of major math concepts found in grade level tasks, and with Barb's facilitation, practice using research-based instructional techniques relevant to the math classroom.

Dr. Barbara Dougherty is the director of the Curriculum Research & Development Group of the University of Hawaii. Barb is a past member of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics Board of Directors (2009–2012) and is past Chair of the NCTM Research Committee.

This training is intended for educators who teach or support students in mathematics (Grades 6 - Secondary I)
